THE DEED CONSUMED.

What has been anticipated for some weeks past has been at length perfected, and South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana are admitted in for Hayes, giving him a majority of one in the electoral college, if no flaw is found in any elector from any other State.

A more flagrant violation of fact and right, and a more flagrant defiance of truth and evidence, has never before exhibited in any of whose veins runs the blood of the Anglo-Saxon. Political tactics worthy of Mexico for the first time, at least on a broad national scale, have been made the weapons of American policy, and the real utterance of the ballot box has been stifled, or distorted to speak the voice of party.

The national administration went into this contest with individual states determined to win; determined to close its eyes to all the appeals of justice, to all the warnings of law; and, with all the strength that control of place and power gave it, to run a blind fight against those moral forces that, up to the present disgraceful era, have been potent, to secure at least the forms of law, and the observation of precedents.

The administration has won—for the present. Its armies have given, not moral, but brute strength, to the infamous tools who manipulated ballot boxes with impunity, and jarred unblushingly the result of their infamous frauds.

But while nominally asserting the success of their schemes, they must be aware that they have only half attained their object. They know, that if satisfactory to themselves, they every act has been watched, and they are already pilloried before the world as cheats and scoundrels. How can they expect their work to stand the scrutiny, not alone of the Democratic Congress, but of their own party friends.

For it must not be forgotten by our friends, apt to fall into despondency at the apparent frustration of their hopes, that the honest Republicans of the North—and they are many—look with disgust upon the practices of those who claim victory through patent frauds, and who revel at the idea of using or sharing power obtained by such means.

These will endorse the action of the Democratic House, if they do not aid it, in resisting these fraudulent claims. They are sensible to the ineffaceable disgrace which will attach to the whole Republican party. They know it will never survive the shock given to its credit. They know moreover that the business interests of the country must wither under the blight of a discredited and disreputable administration, and they will acquiesce in the peaceful recognition of even the hostile claims of Mr. Tilden, rather than accept the more than dubious ones of Mr. Hayes.

There is everywhere a moral conviction that Mr. Tilden is fairly entitled to the electoral vote of Louisiana. There is more than a moral conviction that probabilities have been overstrained to give it to Mr. Hayes. The time is rapidly approaching when a more august, a more impartial, and a more honest tribunal will review the whole question, and then we are sure that the whole country will peacefully accord to Mr. Tilden the position so justly due to him as the choice not only of a popular but of an electoral majority.

The President's Message has so little to say upon subjects most interesting to us that we can neither criticize or reproduce it. The only point about it worthy of consideration is the weak excuse for the bad conduct of his appointee, through which so much trouble has been brought upon the South and so much disgrace upon the administration. This is a mean device to evade responsibility. If ever a man was directly responsible for the acts of his appointees, it is President Grant. He has been deaf to all warnings, blind to all experience, and contemptuous to all rebuke. In fact it is notorious that the more flagrant the offence, the closer he has stuck to the offender. Babcock and McKim and Sheperd are standing monuments to his partiality to crime. The blacker the sin, the dearer the sinner. And it is therefore a contemptible shift to throw upon the very men he has nurtured and defended the responsibility for those fearful violations of law and the constitution, which even his oblique perceptions now enable him to see have worked out their legitimate results.

Albion, the Vermont contesting elector, appeared with counsel before the electoral college and offered his vote for Tilden and Blaine. He filed his protest against the vote of Rollins, and appointed himself to carry his own vote to Washington, where he will fight it out in Congress.

THE PROPOSITION OF MR. HAYES

Mr. Hayes is stated to have sought and obtained an interview with Col. Roberts of the New Orleans Times, having failed in his plan to have one with Senator Lamar of Mississippi with a view to develop his policy towards the South after his inauguration. For Mr. Hayes affects to talk in happy confidence of his election, and to chalk out his future progress with the assurance of a confirmed possessor of his office, his powers and his honors.

The sum and substance of his ideas, are that he is going to be very generous to his policy to the South; that he is going to remove from us the curse of carpet baggers, in whom he recognizes our greatest past; he is going to give all the domestic offices to Southern men; he is going to leave the control of the negro question, and the negroes themselves to the wisdom of Southern men and Southern statesmanship; and—because he wants Southern countenance to his administration—he is going to call a prominent Southern man into his cabinet!

It is the fatal error of Northern politicians and of Northern statesmen, that they have never been able to understand the Southern people. In this corrupt era, they have become accustomed to see self interest the governing principle in every thing. They have become accustomed to see every man hold himself at a price. They have become accustomed to see conscience, honor, political principle bartered away for office or for money, and they have learned the belief that all virtue is extinguished, and that their motives pervade all mankind.

We do not pretend to say that Southern character has altogether withstood the strain which the trials of the last ten years have put upon its endurance. But we do assert that it has not fallen into that abyss of degradation where money or office is the balm for all trouble. It is still pure enough and proud enough to secure it from the sacrifice of elevated party principles to the base rewards that follow treachery to their own convictions.

Mr. Hayes may be perfectly sincere in his offers. But he betrays a base nature when he tempts Southern leaders with the promise of reward to alliance with a party against which every instinct of justice, patriotism and personal interest burns in undying antagonism. It was an unworthy imputation, both upon the honor or the good sense of any Southern man of influence or character, that he could be bought to silence, or induced to co-operation with a chief who is unable to give assurance that he will not perpetuate that system which has entailed such wrong and ruin upon the South. All the efforts of the Democratic party in the South for these ten years have been to obtain justice, not through hostility to the government, but opposition to the administration. Does Mr. Hayes expect, that when that administration is in its death throes, it shall receive new life at the hands of those who have helped to deal the deadly blows?

CONGRESS.

Both Houses are engaged in the work of investigating election frauds. The committees are already at work. Surely there is foundation enough to upset the nefarious work of the Boards of South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana.

As the matter now stands, Tilden has 185 votes including the one from Oregon, given to Cronin. Dem., instead of the disqualified republican postmaster. If the legality of this is assailed, then the radical must go behind the broad seal of the State. If this is done, then that is game the Democrats can play at with advantage.

Tilden is no doubt legally elected, but the decision will not be reached without a fierce struggle in Congress.

The Richmond Whig says: Florida has been counted for Hayes! Why, of course, it has been. Did not Grant say it should be, and did not the Radical leaders notify us before the election it would be counted for him if necessary. Counted for Hayes, indeed! Why, what would have been the use of stealing the vote of South Carolina and Louisiana unless they stole that of Florida also. But hold on, there, thieves; not quite so fast; there is to be another count yet before you are out of the woods.

The New York Herald says: The Oregon electors a checkmate and a surprise. By this astute manoeuvre the supporters of Mr. Tilden have captured the strong hold of the enemy, and can turn his own batteries against him. If one House alone cannot reverse the certificates which bear the signature of the Governor and the seal of the State, the Democrats are strongly entrenched on the ground selected by their adversaries. The rage of the Republicans at being thus hoisted by the own petard is as amusing as it is natural.

Samuel Cooper, late Adjutant and Inspector General of the Confederate army, died Tuesday, in Fairfax county, Va., in the 78th year of his age.

OREGON.

The present feeling of the situation makes the election of Mr. Tilden certain by the one vote gained by the substitution of a Democratic for the disqualified Republican elector. According to the laws of Oregon—and each State is authorized to frame its own laws regarding the manner of electing Presidential electors—Mr. Cronin is as fully entitled to his place as any indisputably returned elector from Massachusetts or Ohio. We would not be disposed to take advantage of any merely technical law, to stifle or misinterpret the real voice of the people. True, the other side has given us full occasion to give a howland for an Oliver. But, as in the case of Vermont, full fairness would suggest that the interest be strictly followed out. Nevertheless we would have the Democratic party make use of this Oregon case, not so much as through it alone, to perfect the election of Mr. Tilden, as by it, to test a principle, and establish Mr. Tilden's election through its application to other States. If the Republicans contest the right of Mr. Cronin, the Oregon, Democratic elector, they must go behind the great Seal of Oregon. If they can do this, the Democrats have the key to the situation. They can go behind the great seals of Louisiana and Florida, and the result will not be doubtful.

The Republicans may throw out Oregon, but if they do, they will lose eleven electoral votes. Either born of the dilemma defeats Mr. Hayes.

The horrible burning of the Brooklyn Theatre on Wednesday night last surpasses any event of the kind known in our history. The burning of the Richmond Theatre in 1811 destroyed between 70 and 80 lives, including that of the Governor of Virginia. The Brooklyn fire destroyed 292.

The most unaccountable feature of the fire is that the loss of life was not suspected until the flames began to clear away the ruins, and the fearful sight was exposed of human bodies, in every condition of mutilation, piled one upon the other to the depth of fifteen feet!

Is there no safeguard against these calamities? Can no effectual plan of escape be devised? Every theatre, and every place of exhibition in the country is a deadly man trap. Every accident creates a panic, every panic a rush to the doors, and these doors invariably close against the frenzied refugees.

There is one remedy for some of the evils, no place of exhibition should be connected with any other building. Its isolation would admit of side doors and give other means of exit than the solitary front entrance.

Chamberlain is inaugurated Governor of South Carolina, having been sworn in by a Justice of the Peace in the presence of his ramp Legislature. But Hampton will also be sworn in by the Democratic branch of the Legislature which has a majority on joint ballot, and then there will be two governors. Proceedings have been taken by the Democratic House to oust Chamberlain.

SYNOPSIS OF THE PRESIDENTIAL MESSAGE.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 5.—The President commenced with a recapitulation of the events and his official acts of the past eight years. He said mistakes have been made as can be seen, and I admit, but it seems to me often in the selections made of the assistants appointed to aid in carrying out the various duties of administering the government, in nearly every case selected without a personal acquaintance with the appointee, but upon recommendations of the representatives chosen directly by the people.

It is impossible where so many trusts are to be allotted that the right parties should be chosen in every instance. History shows that no administration from the time of Washington to the present has been free from these mistakes, but I leave comparison to history, claiming only that I have acted in every instance from a conscientious desire to do what was right, constitutional and within the law and for the very best interests of the whole people. The failures have been errors of judgment, not of intent.

FINANCES.

The message says taxes have been reduced within the last seven years nearly $300,000,000, and the national debt has been reduced in the same time over $133,000,000 by substituting bonds. The annual interest on the debt has been reduced $30,000,000 per annum. The balance of trade has changed from $130,000,000 against us to $20,000,000 in our favor, and he believes the balance of trade will continue in our favor, and the pledge of Congress to resume specie payments in 1879, will be easily redeemed, even in the absence of further much desired legislation.

THE INDIAN POLICY.

The policy adopted towards the Indians has been humane, and has substantially ended hostilities to the whole land, except in the Black Hills and approaches thereto.

FOREIGN NATIONS.

Relations with foreign nations continue friendly. The centennial exhibition is alluded to as promotive of good feeling and better acquaintance with foreign nations. Alluding to the reductions of allowances for the diplomatic service, the President cannot escape the conclusion that in some instances the withholding of appropriations will prove an expensive economy, and that the small retrenchments secured by a change of grade in certain diplomatic posts is not an adequate consideration for the loss of influence and importance, which will attend our foreign representatives under this reduction.

THE ENGLISH EXTRADITION TREATY.

He reserves for another communication a statement of the questions with Great Britain regarding the extradition treaty.

MEXICAN TROUBLES.

The subject of the troubles on the Rio Grande is under consideration between the United States and Mexico. The President asks legislation which may provide for the payment of the awards of the Mexican claims commission.

FRAGILEMENT IN NATURALIZATION.

He recommends legislation to prevent fraudulent naturalization, and on the subject of expatriation and election of nationality in the interest of emigrants, he suggests a new tribunal for the settlement of the claims of aliens against the United States. Other governments are in advance of us in this respect.

THE NEW STATE OF COLORADO.

The President states the provisions of the act of Congress for admitting Colorado into the Union, and that he issued a proclamation to that effect.

THE ARMY.

Additional appropriations for the army are asked.

SOUTH PASS IMPROVEMENTS.

He says the improvement of the South Pass of the Mississippi river under James R. Kads, and his associates is progressing favorably.

The navy is in a condition as effective as possible within the means and authority given the department.

RECOVERY SPIRITISM.

A few post masters in the Southern States have expressed great apprehension of their personal safety on account of their connection with the postal service, and have specially requested that their reports of apprehended danger should not be made public, lest it should result in the loss of their lives, but no positive testimony of interference has been submitted, except in the case of a mail messenger at Spartanburg, South Carolina, who reported that he had been violently driven away while in charge of the mails on account of his political affiliations. An assistant superintendent of the railway mail service investigated this case and reported that the messenger had disappeared from his post, leaving his work to be performed by a substitute. The Postmaster General adds that the case is sufficiently suggestive to justify him in recommending that a more severe punishment should be provided for the offense of an assaulting any person in charge of the mails or retarding or otherwise obstructing them by threats of personal injury.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.

The President calls the attention of Congress to the necessity of throwing greater safeguards over the method of choosing and declaring the election of President.

COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

He says: The compulsory support of the free school and the disfranchisement of all who cannot read and write the English language after a fixed probation would meet with hearty approval.

SANTO DOMINGO.

The President makes an elaborate defence of his recommendation for the annexation of Santo Domingo. After describing the commercial advantages that would have accrued, he says the Cuban question would have been settled long ago in favor of free Cuba. The President adds and concludes that the island of Santo Domingo is but sparsely settled, while it has an area sufficient for the profitable employment of several millions of people. The soil would have soon fallen into the hands of United States capitalists. The products are so valuable in commerce that emigration there would have been encouraged. The emancipated race of the South would have found there a congenial home where their civil rights would not be disputed, and where their labor would be so much sought after that the poorest among them could have found the means to go there in cases of great apprehension and anxiety, such as has been practiced upon them in many places within the last eleven years. Whole communities would have sought refuge in Santo Domingo. I do not suppose the whole race would have gone, nor is it desirable that they should go. Their labor is desirable, and indispensable almost where they now are. But the possession of this territory would have left the negro master of the situation, by enabling him to demand his rights at home on pain of finding them elsewhere. I do not present these views now as a recommendation for a renewal of the subject of annexation, but I do refer to it, to vindicate my previous action in regard to it.

EXIT EXACT.

With the present Congress my official life terminates. It is not probable that public affairs will ever again receive attention from me, further than as a citizen of the republic, always taking a deep interest in the honor, integrity and prosperity of the whole land.

(Signed,) U. S. Grant.

Executive Mansion, Dec. 5, 1876.

Editor's Correspondence.

RALEIGH, Dec. 8th 1876.

The cold spell lasting during the whole of the past week seems about to end with a rain. A good ice crop has been gathered, though the dependence here is almost altogether upon the thick clear coatings of the Northern ponds, with its huge blocks of crystal a foot and a half to two feet thick which we may see in the hot summer days standing on the side walks in utter contempt of the fiercest rays of a torrid sun.

The cold weather has had its effect upon members of the Legislature. The transition from the heated rooms of the Capitol to the sharp external atmosphere has developed several serious cases of illness, besides innumerable colds. The press suggested last winter for heating the Capitol, but has not been carried out, and the building remains as it has been from the beginning, a fruitful source of disease. It ought to strike every one that it is ill advised economy to withhold the means needed to secure both comfort and health, consequences are liable at any time to be deprived of the services of their representatives by sickness induced by their duties, and the sacrifice of health is to erect an exaction to be set off by any considerations of economy. The deaths of numbers of valuable men may be directly traced to their discomforts in the Capitol of the State.

During the session, Raleigh is never without subjects of interest. On Wednesday last was the day fixed by law for the meeting of the electors to cast the vote of the State, for President of the United States. Of course it was a foregone conclusion that they were to cast their votes for Tilden and Hendricks, for whom North Carolina gave the magnificent majority of upwards of 17000. Yet all the impeding forms, and scrupulous scrutiny were observed as if by possibility there might be fraud or there might be opposition.

The electoral College met at 12 o'clock in the Senate Chamber all the members being present. Maj. Avery called the body to order, and then nominated Genl. J. M. Leach as President of the College, and F. H. Buebee was appointed Secretary. Genl. Leach took the chair, and addressed the College in an animated and patriotic speech. Judge Fowle put in nomination, the Hon Samuel J. Tilden of New York, and in doing so, paid a splendid tribute to the wisdom, the statesmanship and the purity of the man North Carolina delights to honor.

Mr. Latham seconded the nomination in a beautiful speech and its conclusion the Secretary read the certificates of the election of the electors, signed by the Governor of the State.

The roll was called and all answered to their names. The ballot was announced by the tellers, Messrs. Robbins and Glenn, and it appeared that Samuel J. Tilden had received ten votes, and the announcement was received with vociferous applause by the large audience present.

Mr. McKase of Cumberland then nominated Thomas A. Hendricks of Indiana for Vice President, seconded by Mr. Glenn, both in capital speeches, and the same formalities were gone through with and Thomas A. Hendricks was announced as having received ten votes.

It. P. Waring was chosen to bear the certificates to Washington. The electors then came forward and signed the certificates of the election, and these were given to the Secretary who placed seals upon them.

There is therefore no flaw in the vote of this State, and whatever may be done with other States the vote of North Carolina is impregnable.

The Grand Lodge of North Carolina has been in session during the week and has drawn a large number of visitors to the city and filling the hotels to overflowing. What they have done is only known and interesting to them.

Hon. K. P. Battle delivered an admirable address on Wednesday night in the Commons Hall on the subject of "The relation of the University to the Agriculture of the State." We have no space to notice it here as it deserves. It will be sufficient to say that it was not intended as a defense of the University, for it does not need it, but to show more clearly its objects, and what it is doing to benefit the best interests of the State. Great revolutions in habits and customs more slowly, but the system of practical instruction in mechanics, Agriculture, and the sciences connected with them will in time enlighten the industry of the whole State. The most pleasant feature in the lecture was the fact that the means of liberal education is thrown open free to one student from each county in the State, and that no deserving young man will be turned away who is without means to pursue his studies, and the limit of one to each county will not be strictly observed if the applicants exceed that number. We will on another occasion have something more to say of this address.

The Legislature adjourns on Wednesday till the 30th of December, to be here in time for the inauguration of Vance. That is going to be the grandest affair of the era, the chapter that crowns the glory of North Carolina's great victory.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is a purely Vegetable Compound, innocent in nature and wonderful in effect. For children it is invaluable, curing Croup, Whooping Cough, etc., in a few hours. Price 25 cents per bottle, or five bottles for $1.00.

There are now 850 convicts at work on the Western N. C. Railroad between Old Fort and Asheville.

A Barbarous Notification.

We wish we could have entered a timely protest against the cruel butchery to which the shade trees of our streets have been the victims.

We are no converts to those advanced ideas of taste which undertake to improve upon nature, which reprove nature for her wild luxuriant work, and curb the exuberance of her prodigality by bringing her back to the straight laced decorum of puritanical primness. We are one of those who believe that nature best knows what she is about, and when she teaches the boughs of the trees to stretch out their arms in spreading freedom, we feel that she enjoys, as we do, the glint of the sun-beam upon the glistening leaves and laughs in the music of the breeze as it murmurs through the rustling foliage.

It seems as cruel and absurd to subject the trees to this pitiless shearing as to dock the horse of the beautiful ornament of flowing mane and tail. Both equally forlorn, and both would equally complain if they could find voice for their indignation.

The beautiful trees which of late adorned our streets now stand wrecks of emulines, topped and mutilated. In many instances only naked and unsightly trunks remaining. We think the abominable taste that dictated this mutilation, might at least have directed the ungrateful work of adaptation to its standard. But not the work was ordered, and its execution was delegated to rude hands; entrusted to the judgment of those whose appreciation of the beautiful rose no higher than that of the swine that root in the gutter.

What has been done is beyond recall. If any more is contemplated in the name of all that is appropriate, let it be stopped.

The Inauguration.

Grand preparations are being made for the inauguration of Governor Vance on the 1st of January. In publicity and in imposing surroundings, it will surpass anything known in our State history. Owing to the immense crowd to be present, the ceremonies will take place in the open air, within the Capitol square on the South side of the Capitol. A platform large enough to seat three hundred people will be erected enclosing the Statue of Washington and covering the railing, so that the effigy of the father of his country, suggestive of patriotism and devotion to the constitution, will form a part of the august group which takes its part in this happy inauguration of a new era for North Carolina.

The American Farmer

closes the year and volume with a number for December of even more than usual interest and value.

With this pioneer journal the subject of fertilizers seems to be ever uppermost, and not only is great stress laid upon the preservation of home-made manures, but the application of scientific principles in restoring and maintaining the fertility of soils is constantly pointed out in plain and practical terms. The record of the proceedings of the most advanced farmers' clubs is another of its noteworthy features.

All the branches of farm life and work are accorded full space. The staple crops, fruit-growing live stock, the dairy, ornamental gardening, &c. are treated by skillful and experienced hands; and all our farmers would find in its pages an ample return for the subscription price, which is $1.50 a year, or only $1 each to clubs of five or more. The publishers, Samuel Sands & Son, Baltimore, offer to send free to all new subscribers received before Dec 31st, the last three numbers of '76.

THE CENTENNIAL OF 1876.

This highly favored county is about to celebrate its hundredth birthday. Under its favored privileges, its citizens have been happy: worshipping God according to the dictates of their own consciences; pursuing their chosen avocations unimpeded; growing rich and prosperous. Some have attained the most exalted positions from the smallest beginnings. This is particularly applicable to Dr. TURTLE'S LIVER PILLS. Ten years ago they had but a limited local reputation, but in this time, aided by scientific research and unobscured business direction, they have attained such a celebrity that there is not a country on the globe that they are not known and used. Wherever disease prevails, especially such as result from torpid liver, dyspepsia, constipation, sick headache, fever and ague, and they are eagerly sought for.

WONDERFUL SUCCESS.

It is reported that BUCHER'S GERMAN SYRUP has, since its introduction in the United States, reached the immense sale of 40,000 dozen per year. Over 6,000 Druggists have ordered this medicine direct from the Factory, at Woodbury, N. J.; and not one has reported a single failure, but every letter speaks of its astonishing success in curing severe Coughs, Colds settled on the Breast, Consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs. We advise any person that has any predisposition to weak Lungs, to go to their Druggists Dr. O. Hooker and get this medicine, or inquire about it. Regular size, 75 cents Sample Bottle, 10 cents. Two doses will relieve any case. Don't neglect your cough.

The Charlotte Observer says: A gentleman just from Columbia, says that he was present when the habeas corpus case of the contemptuous State board of canvassors was called. Settle got up and said he had a few remarks to make in their defense; also, in behalf of granting them

South Carolina.

The Democrats have the advantage in S. C. The Supreme Court recognized the Democratic House of Representatives as the legal body, and has ordered the Secretary of State to deliver up the returns of the election for Gov. to Wallace the Speaker of the Democratic House. The Republicans still contend that Chamberlain shall be Governor, but the Supreme Court refused to swear him in, whereupon the Radical Senate and Massey House passed a bill authorizing a Probate Judge to swear in Chamberlain. This one Boomer proceeded to do, and Chamberlain was inaugurated. This is only a farce, Hampton is recognized by the courts as the Governor-elect, and he will be inaugurated in a few days and proceed to take charge of the capitol.

A FREE CURE.

For consumption, bronchitis, asthma, catarrh, throat and lung diseases. Also a sure relief and permanent cure for general debility, dyspepsia and all nervous affections, by a simple vegetable medicine, which cured a venerable missionary Physician who was long a resident of Syria and the East, and who has freely given this valuable specific to thousands of kindred sufferers with the greatest possible benefit, and he now feels it his sacred christian duty to impart to others this wonderful invigorating remedy, and will send FREE the original receipt complete, with full directions, to any person enclosing stamp for reply.

OBITUARY.

In this place on Wednesday evening the 20th ult. at 6.15 P. M. Miss. Sue J. Stroud aged 23 years 10 months and 23 days. Second daughter of Henry C. Stroud decd.

The subject of this notice was baptized into the fellowship of the Baptist Church at Mars Hill Oct 4th 1853 by Rev. F. M. Jordan. In January 1869 she moved her membership from the Mars-Hill Church and united with the Baptist Church at Hillsboro. Her Holy walk and pious example was a shining light to all her friends and associates. None knew her, except to love her. Her death in the midst of weeping mother, sisters, and endeared friends was a glorious triumph of faith in God, who giveth in the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. Her mind which was remarkably clear to the last moment fully comprehended the near approach of death; fearing not, to walk through the shadow and valley of death. She frequently quoted sweet passages of scripture upon which her soul mightily rested. But she is gone, and her works do follow her.

Oh! let me, die the death of the righteous.
A FRIEND.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

What will make a simple and inexpensive eastern filter?

Put a strainer, with the bottom full of fine sand, in a wooden box, of about 10 inches in diameter, and about 12 inches high.

Also, for the same purpose, a solution of bluestone in water, one pound of bluestone dissolved in two gallons of water.

After passing the water through either of these preparations, a couple of hours, and the water will be perfectly filtered as it runs out of the bottom.

Our strainer, when heated, if so how? Spring brass has been recommended, in which the water is to be heated, or two.

Also, for the same purpose, a solution of bluestone in water, one pound of bluestone dissolved in two gallons of water.

Save the leaves. Gather all you can, and dry them in the sun, and after drying, they will be found to be nothing but a mass of leaves. They are more durable as a bedding than straw, besides being more satisfactory to the stock than any other bedding.
